

Greens Maintenance Update

Approaches

Our greenstaff have commenced the re-shaping of our greens approach complex areas and run offs. Some of these areas have lacked definition and contours lost to the coarser grass species.

Mowing around the greenside bunkers at a closer height of cut not only improves the aesthetics but the playability of the golf hole.

1832

This process can be unsightly at first but with careful management and refinement will vastly improve the links experience for our members and visitors alike.

Creating run off areas at the back of the greens also introduces a different variety of shot, allowing for a different strategy when playing the hole.

Darren McLaughlan, Course Manager